PROJECTS

An Encryption Technique to Secure Image Transmission Through Network

- Arnold Cat Map and Henon Map are used to shuffle and modify pixel values for secure image encryption process.
- High entropy increases randomness in the encrypted image, making patterns unrecognizable and secure.
- The method resists unauthorized access, ensuring strong data security and protection against attacks.
- Effectiveness is validated using RGB and histogram analysis, ensuring strong image data protection against attacks.

FlyAwayNow - Online Bus Ticket Booking System

- FlyAwayNow is a system designed to provide an easy, efficient, and user-friendly platform for bus ticket booking.
- Provides a simple interface that works smoothly across multiple devices, ensuring a seamless user experience.
- Allows users to manage bookings, plan travel itineraries, and access real-time bus schedules and updates.
- Includes secure authentication, reliable payment processing for enhanced system performance and security.
